

BIG FIGURES AT THE PRIMARIES

Leading Candidates For Office And What They Stand For Briefly Analyzed.

FIERCE FIGHT IN 11TH. DISTRICT

Between Jenkins And Lenroot For Congressional Honors Almost Overshadows Senatorial Contest.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 1.—The voters of all political parties, republican, democratic, prohibitionist and socialist, are participating in a state-wide primary in Wisconsin today. Candidates for all state offices from the governorship down are to be chosen, and also representatives in congress, members of the legislature and county officers. For the first time in this state, the choice of United States senator devolves upon the voters direct. Under primary election the nomination is to be made by the people, although under the federal state constitution and statute the election must be made by members of the legislature. There is some doubt in the minds of politicians as to how binding the voice of the people will be upon the legislature, especially if the vote is split pretty equally among the candidates.

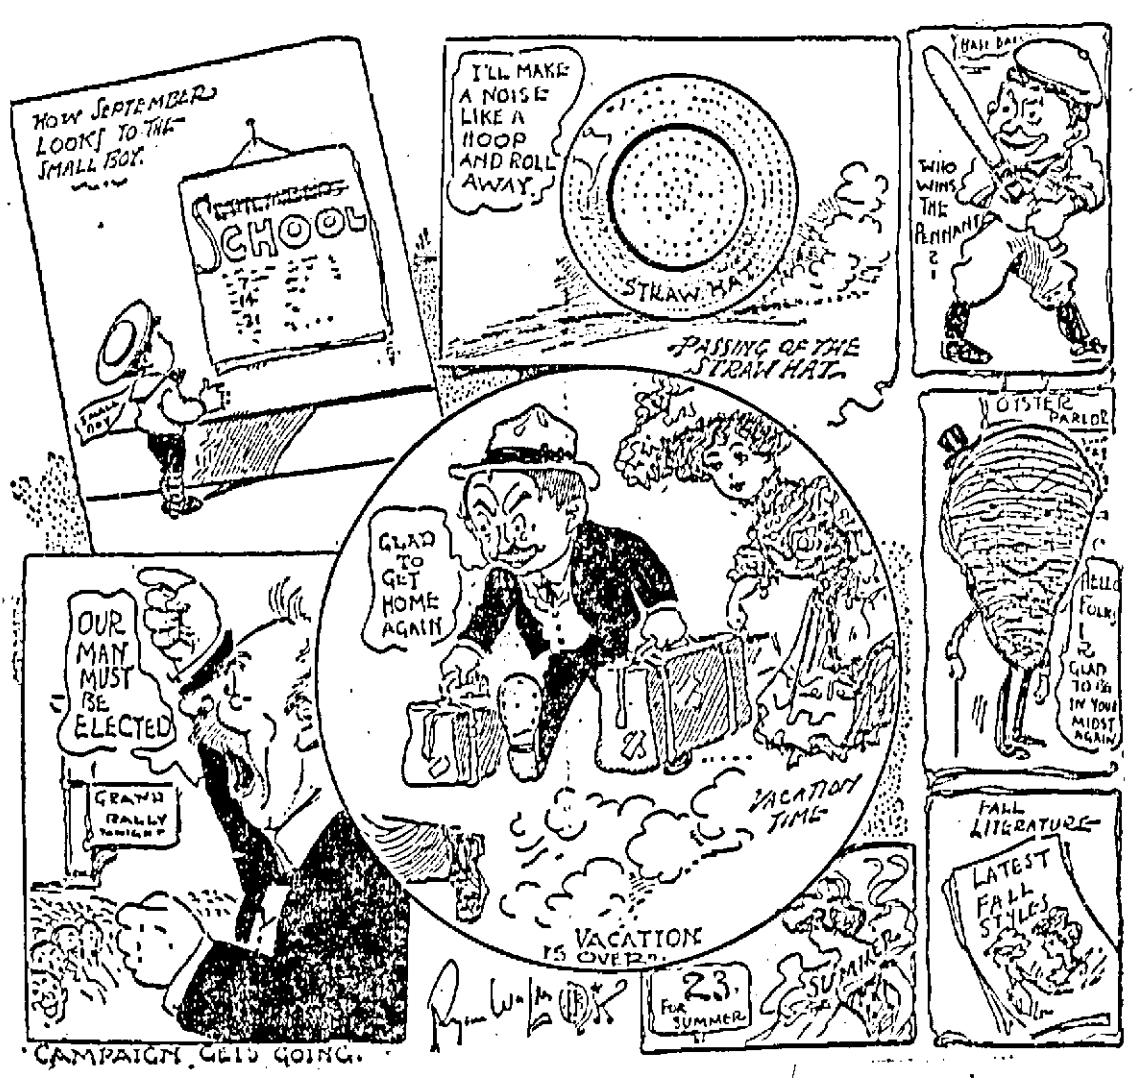

The names of four candidates appear on the primary ballot for the republican nomination to succeed Senator Isaac Stephenson. Former state Senator William H. Hutton, author of the Wisconsin railway commission law, was the first to announce his candidacy. He came within two votes of the election two years ago and is referred to by his supporters as the "man who wrote the Wisconsin" idea into good, sound law. Senator Stephenson, who is a candidate to succeed himself, was the last to enter the field. Mr. Stephenson is reputed to be one of the richest men in Wisconsin, and enjoys being mentioned as the man who financed the Wisconsin idea, including La Follette and the entire reform program. The two other candidates for the republican nomination are Francis E. McGovern, district attorney of Milwaukee County, who won his spurs in the fight against graft in Milwaukee, and former Congressman S. A. Cook of Neenah, who through all the fourteen years of political strife in this state has succeeded fairly well in maintaining pleasant relations with all factions.

The democratic candidates for the senatorial nomination are Neal Brown of Wausau and Melvin A. Hoyt of Milwaukee. The candidate of the social democratic party is Jacob Hummel, also of Milwaukee.

Governor James O. Davidson is to be renominated as head of the republican ticket. The leading candidate of the democrats for the gubernatorial nomination is John A. Aylward of Madison. Mr. Aylward was the candidate two years ago. He is ultra-progressive in his ideas and is known as a staunch Bryan man. He is opposed for the democratic nomination by Adolph J. Schultz of Milwaukee. Winfred D. Cox of this city is the choice of the prohibitionists for governor, and the choice of the social democrats is Harvey Deo Brown of Racine.

The most bitter fight of the primary campaign, which seemingly is far overshadowing that for the republican nomination for United States senator, is the contest between Congressman John J. Jenkins and Irvine L. Lenroot of Superior for the nomination for congress in the eleventh district. Many well-informed politicians are of the opinion that representative Jenkins is in danger of losing his political life.

The contest in the eleventh district is one of no ordinary moment, inasmuch as representative Jenkins is the chairman of the house Judiciary committee, which has been widely named as the "morgue" of the house of representatives, where Speaker Cannon finds a way of burying beyond hope of resurrection the proposed legislation that he believes should be designated for the death. Organized labor is bitter against representative Jenkins, who has stood against anti-injunction legislation and other legislation wanted by labor, but probably

MICHIGAN PRIMARY TO DECIDE NOTHING?

Close Observers Believe that Neither of Three Candidates for Governor will get 40 Per Cent of Votes.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 1.—Following one of the most interesting campaigns that Michigan has seen in some years the voters are participating today in a general primary for the selection of candidates for all state offices.

The interest in the primary centers chiefly in the republican contest for the governorship. Governor Fred M. Warner is fighting for a third-term nomination backed by his political beneficiaries and many friends, but opposed by the interests which have been represented by the old political machine in this state.

Governor Warner's opponents are Dr. James B. Bradley of Eton Rapids, and Horatio Earle the present state highway commissioner. Both have made very active campaigns. The friends of Governor Warner are confident he will be renominated, but the best observers are inclined to the opinion that neither of the three candidates will receive forty per cent of the votes cast at the primary and that as a result the nomination will be made by the state convention.

While the republicans are divided by factional differences the democrats present a solid front. The leaders of the democratic party are more hopeful of success this fall than they have been in years. They believe they have a chance to elect a governor and possibly capture a congressman and some of the county officers. At present the party has no representation in congress and but few office-holders of any nature whatsoever.

The democratic choice for the governorship is Layton T. Hemans of Mason. Mr. Hemans is spoken of as a young, clean man, with many friends in both parties. He is an orator of no mean ability, a student, a writer of history, a lawyer and a politician. The prohibition party will have a full state ticket in the field headed by John W. Gray as the candidate for governor.

ROCK COUNTY THIRD RICHEST IN STATE

This is the Report Made by the State Tax Commission Yesterday.

Rock County is the third county in the state in wealth, according to the annual state assessment announced by the state tax commission at Madison yesterday afternoon. The total valuation of the real and personal property of Rock county is placed this year at $75,557,802. This is an increase of $5,055,321 over last year, when the total was $70,502,481. The personal property of the county this year is valued at $17,554,727 and the real property valuation is $57,993,075. Milwaukee county is of course the richest in the state, being assessed at $181,958,944. The state assessment is valued over $222,000,000, of which nearly a fourth comes from Milwaukee county. Nearly half of the increase in the state assessment is in personal property valuation, indicating the discovery of much property that had not hitherto been assessed and taxed. The total assessment is this year $2,478,561,786.

GRAND ARMY VETERANS DEDICATE A MONUMENT

On The Site Of Fort Meigs At Perrysburg, Near Toledo--National Encampment In Full Swing.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Toledo, O., Sept. 1.—Veterans and other visitors attending the national encampment of the Grand Army awoke this morning to find before them a program of business and pleasure calculated to keep them exceedingly busy during the entire day. The events of encampment week were inaugurated in earnest this forenoon with reunions of many brigades and regiments and meetings of committees to be held during the next few days.

The big event of today's program, of interest to the general public as well as the veterans, was the dedication of the monument on the site of Ft. Meigs, at Perrysburg, within easy access of this city by trolley car and boat. The monument marks the place where General William Henry Harrison defeated Proctor, the British general, and Tecumseh, his Indian ally, in 1813, and saved all the western territory to the United States. The dedication was accompanied by interesting exercises which were participated in by the national and state officials of the G. A. R., the Ohio National Guard, and the chief executives of Ohio, Virginia, Kentucky and several other states.

Everything is in readiness for the formal opening of the encampment tonight at the Valentine Theatre, where a big campfire will be lighted. Governor Harris of Ohio, Mayor Whitlock of Toledo, Department Commander Shearer of the Ohio G. A. R., and J. Kent Hamilton, chairman of the local executive committee, will extend greetings, and the invocation will be by Rev. Samuel Fallows, chaplain-in-chief. Judge Charles G. Hurton of Missouri, commander-in-chief, will respond, after which Mrs. Kate E. Jones of New York, national president of the W. R. C., will extend greetings for the order. Other speakers of the evening will be Dr. Ralph Sheldon of Albany, N. Y., commander-in-chief of the Sons of Veterans; Miss G. Millie Leighton of Massachusetts, national president of the Daughters of Veterans; Judge Advocate General L. W. Collins, of Minnesota; Mrs. Clara N. Sawyer of Portland, Me., representing the Ladies of the G. A. R.; Judge L. E. Griffith, senior vice commander-in-chief, and W. M. Scott, the junior vice commander-in-chief. One of the impressive features of the campfire, aside from the speeches and the singing by the Toledo Mannerchor will be the flag presentation by the Army Nurses.

OUTSIDERS MAKE THE SEWER PIPE

JACKSON SYSTEM PREFERRED TO PARMLEY BLOCKS BY COUNCIL.

FIRE ENGINE PROPOSITION

Approved but No Arrangements Made for Appropriation—Other Business Transacted by City Dads.

At the regular meeting of the common council last evening the representatives of the Reinforced Concrete Pipe Co. of Jackson, Mich., and the Parmlay cement block system of sewer construction were given another opportunity to present arguments regarding the relative merits of their products. Strains, crushing weights, and other engineering problems were exhaustively discussed by Mr. Parmlay, but the statements made by City Engineer Kerch and at least two of the aldermen were evidently the determining factors. The city engineer said that he had made inquiries at Green Bay and learned that a contract had been awarded there for Parmlay construction for a distance of three blocks. The engineer then had stated that this had been done to satisfy certain property-holders who wanted to take advantage of the difference in price between that and Jackson pipe, but that the city engineer had been told by Mr. Robinson that Jackson reinforced concrete pipe was being used and that he was unqualified in favor of it. Ald. Dull said that he had made inquiries at the headquarters of the C. & N. W. Ry. Co. engineering department at Chicago and had been told by Mr. Robinson that Jackson reinforced concrete pipe couldn't be beaten. Ald. Richardson had been told practically the same thing at the C. M. & St. P. headquarters. On motion of Chairman Carle of the committee on sewers, the ordinance providing for the appropriation of $35,000 to pay for the construction of the main outlet sewer and $18,450 to pay the interest on an issue of 90 per cent main outlet sewer bonds of the devaluation of $500, was given its third reading and placed on passage. A majority and minority report from the street assessment committee regarding the kind of construction favored was then submitted. The majority report, signed by C. V. Kerch, J. J. Sheridan, and J. J. Dull, recommended Jackson pipe, while the minority report, signed only by Ald. Buchholz, was in favor of the Parmlay block system. The majority report was adopted by a vote of 7 to 3. Aldermen Buchholz, O'Hara, and Watt voted in the negative, and the first named explaining that he considered the Parmlay block construction the more compact and durable of the two in question. At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. Granger was granted permission to speak. He said that his position had never been antagonistic to the Parmlay block or any other system; that he was simply anxious to have the city decide as soon as possible what method of construction it wanted; and that he did not desire to enter into the contract with any grievance outstanding. He gave an affirmative answer to question by Ald. Buchholz as to whether he had gotten the price on Jackson pipe at the solicitation of the Mayor and City Engineer.

Move to Buy Fire Engine

Chairman Buchholz of the fire and water committee submitted a report to the effect that negotiations for a new steam fire engine had been conducted, in accordance with the instructions of the council and that the committee favored the Continental type made by the Ahrens Co. of Cincinnati which could be had, including a $200 gas heater, for $3,875. He offered a resolution and an order empowering the committee to enter into a contract for this engine whenever the necessary money should be available. Both were carried and it will be possible to make the purchase when the council makes an appropriation or issues bonds.

Coal Bids Rejected

The finance committee's report on bids and the salary list for August were adopted and an order directing the treasurer to borrow $2,500 and place the same to the credit of the fire and water fund was passed. Four bids for furnishing the city with coal were submitted. The Rock County Concrete Stone Co., which submitted the lowest offer for hard coal ($8.50), neglected to set its price on pea coal until after the bids were opened. On motion of Ald. Sheridan new bids were called for all along the line. The city clerk was instructed by a motion introduced by Ald. Brown to notify the proper officials of the League of American Municipalities and the Wisconsin branch of that organization that Janesville would not be represented at the conventions to be held at Omaha and Des Moines, Mo., Claims, Bonds and Petitions.

Further Time was granted the Judiciary committee for the consideration of Lizzie Brown's $250 claim for injuries alleged to have been sustained by reason of a defective walk on Hickory street and the $250 and $200

High st. property owners that work ordered on that thoroughfare last April be deferred, it was moved, seconded and carried that the undertaking be postponed until May 1, 1939. J. J. Dull presided at the session and all of the aldermen were present.

SCIENCE PREVENTS BALDNESS.

The Fatal Germ and Its Remedy Now Facts of Science.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man goes bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that cuts the hair off at the root and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Minnett, in the Maryland Block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by causing his head with thick hair in a few days, and in six weeks he had a normal scalp of hair. Sold by leading druggists. Send for literature, for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

UNDERFEED FURNACE

The Underfeed furnace will get as much heat out of a ton of the very cheapest fuel as can be obtained from a ton of the costliest anthracite. The Underfeed enables you to

on coal bill. The reason is plain. In an Underfeed the fuel is fed from underneath and before the coal is consumed all the smoke and gas is burned. In the Underfeed there is no waste caused by smoke and gases going up the chimney. I would like to tell you more about this furnace and show you what others think of it.

The Victim of Drink

Needs Orlene Treatment

Drink first destroys ambition; breaks up ties of friendship; it kills and buries love and eventually destroys the family life.

Some of the best men in the world have been victims of drink and if there is not some member in your family that is afflicted with this disease, you are indeed fortunate.

Drink cunningly destroys the will power, and while the drunkard wants to do what you tell him, he wants a thousand times more the drink than he craves.

Drunkness is no longer considered a crime; eminent scientists and physicians have agreed that it is a disease and must be treated as such.

The home treatment that has been used for a number of years, and is highly successful, is Orlene. It is sold under a positive guarantee that if it does not effect a cure your money will be refunded.

Orlene is in two forms. When desiring to give secretly, purchase Orlene No. 1, and if the patient will voluntarily take the treatment, Orlene No. 2 should be given. The guarantee is the same in either case. Orlene costs but $1 per box. Mailed in plain sealed wrapper on receipt of price. Write for free treatise on "Drunkness," mailed in sealed envelope by The Orlene Co., Washington, D. C., and in this city by People's Drug Co. and King's Pharmacy.

EVANSVILLE FAIR IS A BIG SUCCESS

Bigger and Better Than Ever Before is the General Verdict—Attendance at Opening Exceeds Expectations.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evansville, Wis., Sept. 1.—With perfect weather conditions prevailing, the Evansville county fair opened this morning with a big attendance, including many visitors from Janesville and other neighboring cities and towns. It is "Children's Day" and the little people are greatly in evidence.

In every department the entries are larger by half than last year. The swine and sheep and cattle exhibits have doubled in magnitude and the poultry show is exceptionally fine. The vegetable department, also, is larger and better and the display of corn is immense. Unusually attractive, also, is the horticultural department and the fine arts exhibit is more extensive and of better quality than ever before.

Mr. Donnelly is in charge of a very attractive exhibit by the Janesville Machine Co. and Edward Amerphol presents 160 varieties of plants and flowers. The Baker Manufacturing Co. has a splendid exhibit of gasoline engines, windmills, grinders, and pumps, and G. C. Roberts has one of the best displays of the newest things in farm machinery ever seen hereabouts. Buggies and cream separators are included in his display.

Pony races and a ball game between Porter and Edgerton are the events scheduled for this afternoon. Every race on the program is filled and there are as many as eight entries in most of the events. The Evansville band is playing and the holiday spirit has full sway. The management is immensely pleased with the first day's showing and a record-breaking attendance for the entire season is confidently anticipated.

and we are showing an excellent assortment right now. Already we have received about $4000 worth. Our long experience in buying ready-to-wear garments has taught us the kind to let alone. We have the advantage of controlling in Southern Wisconsin the output of some of the best manufacturers in the United States, who are satisfied to sell only to the largest dealer. Owing to the great quantity we are able to use, we have every advantage in buying.

The illustrations represent some of the new fall creations in the suits we are showing, that will give you a good idea of the prevailing styles. This ad. will serve as a gentle reminder that we are ready for the earliest buyers; in fact we have already had a very satisfactory business considering that the season has just begun. The popular autumn colors are brown, blue, black, green, London smoke, Chevron novelties and others. The

CROP FACTORS

Financiers are watching the crops closely these last days of the summer and first of the fall.

Development depends the prosperity of the country.

No one keeps closer watch upon the situation than do the Wall Street bankers.

In the Monday issue of the Wall Street Journal is the following summary of the crop situation as viewed by the easterners from careful observation of conditions:

"Weather conditions in the week just concluded have dominated the greater portion of the territory over which crop interest extends.

The main feature has been heavy rainfall in the early portion of the week, of which the Atlantic coast states bore the brunt, but which extended well into the interior.

Farther north and west lower temperatures were reported and some touches of frost felt.

Practically no injury has as yet come thus far from this source.

The crops are thus entering upon the first week of September with a remarkable degree of good fortune.

The rains of the week have stimulated fall plowing and put the soil in prime condition for the seeding of winter wheat.

"Corn still hangs in the balance. Probably two-thirds of it or more is beyond injury from freezing. But it will take at least two or three weeks more for the upper tier of corn states to ripen the late plantings.

Early frost would materially reduce the merchantable proportion of the crop and likewise lessen the feeding value of the unmerchantable portion.

As things stand now a large crop is anticipated, but owing to backward conditions corn is selling 20 per cent higher than a year ago, with 75¢ quoted at the close of business on Friday for September delivery.

"The commercial movement of wheat has improved somewhat, although interior receipts are not coming forward rapidly.

Exports of wheat and flour last week were 4,525,000 bushels against 3,908,000 last year, making 27,298,000 bushels since July 1, or a million bushels more than last year.

Prices in wheat have been stiffened during the week, closing at 95 cents for September at Chicago, largely on account of the reduction of Argentine exports to half the proportions of the week before.

From that country 1,607,000 bushels of corn were exported last week, showing liberal movement in the coarse grain, without affecting values here.

"Cotton prices have come to a low or level with the progress of the new crop and its early ripening in the southwest.

The market for spots was paying 9.25 cents at New Orleans on Friday, 9.50 cents at New York and 10.50 cents a pound at Liverpool on a downward swing.

"Thus far exports have been twice as large as a year ago. The old cotton year closes on Aug. 31, and the new one will start with a quite vigorous trade from export demands.

Proper selling is a feature of the lower values which brought spot cotton below 9½ cents. Futures are still easier and lower, and the gap between the two is now only three-quarters of a cent.

The heavy storm which struck the southeast did little damage because little cotton was open at that time.

"Within the next ten days the market will turn its attention from the field conditions to the commercial aspects of the crops, and the second stage of the season will have been entered upon.

As field work is completed marketing will become more general and the railroads and merchants should look for an active demand from other sources."

SHALL THE RAILROADS GROW?

President Shuman's idea for fair play between the railroads and the public on the one hand and for a wider latitude for these highways to work out their own problems on the other, is undoubtedly timely and eminently to the point.

"The country is depending on some half a million holders of railroad stocks and bonds for the supply of capital necessary in the development of these properties to meet the growing needs of business.

The people who have invested in railroads in the past, and who now hold their obligations, will in all probability be the chief contributors to capital resources in the future.

Devoid question, therefore, any move which weakens the responsibility of railway management and puts these properties and their earning power under the control of communists, will arrest the tendency of the country to return to prosperity.

Public supervision is necessary, but must stop short of the fatal point of disrupting responsibility.

The railroads are money makers for the whole people, and the whole people have an interest in their well-being.

That well-being depends on private capital. Private capital has plenty of other fields in which to go, if the railway field is too prejudicially hampered to secure it.

Hence, regardless of what the past may have been, the responsibility for the future rests heavily on those whose conduct in public office and private life has anything to do with tipping the scales for or against the reviving of transportation through its effect upon investment confidence.

The straw hats were officially doctored today by custom, but in Chicago Mayor Husse has defied the elements and decreed that they may be worn until the 15th.

His position is similar to that of King Canute, who bid the tide stop, but it didn't.

This mother-in-law joke is realized by the Affinity Earle and he will be glad to laugh over them when he reads them in the papers after this.

His little experience in jail was not conducive to better his opinion of his wife's mother.

The Gazette will flash the returns from the primary from all parts of the state onto a screen in front of the office this evening and the public are cordially invited to watch them.

Bitter personalities have marred the campaign for various offices and the use of such should be deplored by good citizens who seek to choose the best man for the office.

So the Hains are to place a seven-year old boy on the witness stand to tell of the wrongdoings of his mother that his father may be freed from the murder charge.

It is hoped that the cool weather will remain with us for a few days at least, as the "heated term" of two days was quite sufficient for a short time at least.

So Mr. Taft has landed some bass and is now a champion fisherman. Between golf and fishing Taft gets into prominence quite often.

By this time tomorrow there will be many a disappointed man in the state who will realize just how popular he really is.

County Clerk Lee and Clerk of the Court Earle are already nominated and it is safe to say their majority is clean cut and large.

Bryan's campaign managers like good generals, claim everything in sight and Taft's lieutenants do the same.

So the Senator from West Virginia did not prove as good with his fists as he has with his votes and his opponent scored thirty hits.

Allwaukee is having the time of its life today. This primary means fun for those who like that sort of a thing.

Janesville streets took on quite an election day appearance with the flags of the different candidates running for their respective favorites.

Now that the primaries are over it is time to turn attention to the election of the national republican ticket.

Today is primary day and every good citizen should have voted before the polls close at seven tonight.

Every indication from throughout the state points to Stephenson's nomination by a good wide plurality.

The Chicago papers are after Chief Shipley because of the gambling that still exists in Chicago.

Now, Mister Candidates, how do you like the primary law? Has it met your expectations?

If Taft gets good and mad he promises to be a red hot candidate.

The Oshkosh Humorist Again.

Noenah Times: An Oshkosh baseball roster was at Hotel Noenah today to dinner. "What's your order?" asked the waitress. "I'll take a hot grand and a foul tip," he replied. The waitress brought him a baked potato and a spring chicken.

DEMOCRATIC LOVE FEAST IN ST. PAUL

BRYAN AND JOHNSON COMPLAINMENT EACH OTHER.

FORMER SPEAKS AT FAIR

Glad He Is Even Second Choice in Minnesota—Socialist Special With Debs Arrives at Davenport, Ia.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 1.—Secure in the knowledge that Gov. Johnson of Minnesota, his leading rival for the nomination before the Denver convention, will loyally support him in the coming campaign in the northwest, William J. Bryan left Monday night for Fargo, N. D., where he will speak Tuesday.

It was Johnson-Bryan day in Minnesota's capital. Mr. Bryan said so himself. Addressing the members of the state central committee in the afternoon, Mr. Bryan said:

"I know I am not the first choice of the Democrats in this state, but it is good to be even second choice in a state where Gov. Johnson is first. The news you bring me that this will be a Democratic year in this state is very pleasing."

Genuine Love Feast. The meeting of the state central committee was a real love feast, in which Mr. Bryan and Gov. Johnson showered compliments and praise upon each other. Before the gathering of the committee, Messrs. Bryan and Johnson held conferences regarding the campaign, not only in Minnesota, but in the other northwestern states. Gov. Johnson pledged his active support of the national ticket and will make numerous speeches between now and November 3.

At the state fair grounds Mr. Bryan spoke for an hour before an immense crowd. His principal topic was Republican extravagance. Addressing himself to the farmers, he declared that they had special reason for complaint because they paid more than their share of the taxes collected and received less than their share of the benefits which flowed from the expenditure of the corporations.

Straus and Wilson to Take Stump.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Both Secretary of Commerce and Labor Straus and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson will participate in the political campaign. Secretary Straus returned here Monday, after a vacation in New England. He said that while no specific dates had been fixed, he would make two or three speeches during the campaign, probably in his own state of New York.

Secretary Wilson, who returned here several days ago, will make several speeches.

Socialist Special in Iowa.

Davenport, Ia., Sept. 1.—The Socialist special train bearing Eugene V. Debs, candidate for the presidency on the Socialist ticket; James H. Brewer, Socialist candidate for governor of Illinois, and other prominent Socialists, on a trans-continental campaign tour, arrived here Monday afternoon after a day's run from Chicago, interrupted by stops at Joliet, Ottawa and Springfield, where Debs and Brewer made rear platform addresses. At night Debs made the first important address of his campaign at Turner opera house in this city.

Negro Attacks Young Woman.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 1.—Miss Lizzie Agan, 18 years old, a guest of George Mathis, a brother of the mayor of Des Moines, was attacked early Tuesday by a negro, who entered her bedroom and stifled her cries by thrusting his fist in her mouth. After a desperate struggle the girl frightened her assailant away. The police arrested him after beating him unconscious. When he recovered he gave his name as Earl Nizzort. From letters found in his pockets it developed that he had left a wife and several children in Jacksonville, Ill.

Evidence of Tragedy Found.

Washington, Pa., Sept. 1.—The partially decayed bodies of two men found near each other in a dense undergrowth about two miles from Secorville Hill, a small hamlet in this county, three huts and a torn-up section of the ground giving evidence of a fierce struggle, have set all officials of this district to work in efforts to secure the details of a tragedy that so far is enshrouded in mystery.

Terrible Fall of Carpenters.

New York, Sept. 1.—Three carpenters working on a temporary scaffold suspended on wire cables under the dome of the old custom house building on Wall street, now being remodeled for the National City bank, were hurled through the air to a skylight 80 feet below Monday, when one of the supporting cables parted. Two were killed and the third fatally injured.

Flames Peril Michigan Village.

Alpena, Mich., Sept. 1.—The village of Alpena is threatened with destruction by forest fires, and the entire population is out fighting the flames. Telephone and telegraph wires are down, but reports state that the timber products, trees and logs and the crops of the vicinity have all been destroyed.

Bought by the McKinley System.

Calro, Ill., Sept. 1.—Announcement was made Monday night that the Calro Electric Traction company and the Calro City Gas company have been bought by the McKinley Traction system. The new owners now control all the public lighting and traction facilities of this city.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

Copyright, 1904, by Edwin A. Nye.

WE DON'T KNOW MUCH.

It behooves the scientist to sing low these days. Heretofore he has been rather too dogmatic. If, for instance—

Radium may be changed into helium then some of the "well settled principles of science" are knocked into smithereens. The discovery of radium itself was a hard blow.

Truth is a powerful wedge. It splits theory logs smack open. The prating of the sure enough who is certain of his conclusions is often made to sound like the puerile prattling of a child talking in the dark.

A learned professor—Haeckel—in his book "Riddle of the Universe" takes several kinds of kinks out of the bonafide know-all.

He says we don't know much.

And comes mightily near proving it.

He says we play at putting up big things—high buildings, great bridges, huge engines and such. But he says we do not know even a little bit about how to prevent murder, suicide, theft and poverty.

He hits us hard there.

We boast of our civilization and point to its indices—railroads, machines, news transmitters, etc.

Why, Diogenes made fun of that sort of "progress" 2,000 years ago. He got out his tub and rolled it through the streets of Athens and said, "That is all there is to your boasted progress"—stupidly making the wheels go round.

Haeckel says we don't know much about a man. We don't know where he got either his mind or his body. We don't know very much about how he can best use either body or mind.

We don't know very much about the proper relation of men to government. Our political economy stops short of the problem of distribution.

Haeckel says we know scarcely anything about the prevention of crime. Sin and suffering are problems as serious as in David's time.

He tells us it is the fault of our educational system that we do not know more. He says our education skips the really important things.

Maybe.

Anyway, we don't know much.

Wyoming. Cont. Min's Closed.

About 8,000 men are affected.

Bryan's Son Engaged to Wed.

Milwaukee, Sept. 1.—The engagement of Miss Helen Berger, daughter of Alexander Berger, a miller and board of trade man of this city, and William Jennings Bryan, Jr., son of the Democratic presidential candidate, is admitted by Mr. Berger, who returned Monday from a business trip to Colorado and Nebraska.

MUCH INTEREST IN THE PRIMARY

VOTERS OF THE CITY GETTING OUT TO CAST BALLOTS.

THE VOTE IS FAIRLY LARGE

Contests Have Excited Much Interest and Ward Workers Are Diligent in Getting Out the Vote.

Today is primary day with a vengeance. The carriages at the different voting places, the workers for the various candidates button-holing the voters, all go to make up the day's happenings on a primary. The vote itself was fairly large all over the city. While not quite as heavy at one place as last spring at the primary, it is steadily piling up. The following is a comparison of the vote for last spring and today:

	Today's vote.	Spring Primary.
First ward.....	163	175
Second ward.....	128	230
Third ward.....	240	320
Fourth ward.....	170	119
Fifth ward.....	73	131

Indications are that Isaac Stephenson is polling a heavy vote in every ward in the city. The second candidate will be Hutton, and Cook and McGovern will follow.

Thomas S. Keller is also getting a large vote out and many old-timers who have always voted the democratic ticket are in line for him for the first time in their lives. Grant Fisher is also getting a heavy vote for the assembly.

The county vote is also exceptionally heavy if indications at noon can be judged as a sample. The contests for sheriff and district attorney have stirred up the farmer vote to a large extent and while in some districts not so much interest is shown as in others the vote is large.

In the city the county ticket is receiving support and much interest is being shown. The county treasurer's fight is also adding to the interest exhibited. There is hardly a horse in any of the heavy barns, all being in use at the polls.

This evening the Gazette will announce the returns as fast as received on a canvass in front of the office, to which the public are invited. The office itself will be closed, owing to the press of work of compiling the returns.

Owing to the large number of candidates' names to be counted it will be late before the returns are received.

"DR." TILL HAS RETURNED TO VILLAGE OF SOMERSET

Reports That He Would Be Deported by the Immigration Bureau Appear to Have Had No Foundation. "Dr." Till, the plaster specialist, has arrived in the little village of Somerset, Wis., after spending the summer in Austria, his native home. He was detained by the immigration officials at New York but passed their examination and immediately left for the west. The conjectures to the effect that his enemies would prevent his return to Wisconsin seem to have had little or no foundation.

RAILROAD CONTROLS LOCAL LUNCH ROOM

St. Paul Railroad Taken Over All Lunch Counters in Different Cities on Its Line.

After today the lunch rooms at the St. Paul passenger depot will be owned and operated by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road. The same people will continue to work there and it will be under practically the same management as before as Mr. Murphy, the man who formerly was in charge of the railroad eating-houses, hotels and news distribution bureau will manage them when they are under the control of the railroad. The lunch counters, hotels and news distribution bureau have been run by a company known as the Allanson-Murphy News company. The senior partner of the firm died several years ago and since then John H. Murphy, who has had charge of the work now, by appointment of the officials of the road, has been the guiding head of the company up to the present time. The local employees were informed of the change today but were told that the firm of Allanson-Murphy had dissolved partnership and that Mr. Murphy would now attend to the business.

Besides the local lunch room, a large number of other lunch rooms, eating-houses and news stands in other cities will also come under the new management and the company is planning on doing the same on their new Pacific Coast extension and all over the entire system.

Count Von Getzen.

Washington, D. C.—With the death of Baron Speck on Stenberg, the German ambassador to the United States, the question arises as to his probable successor. Count Von Getzen, the Prussian minister at Hamburg, stands out prominently among several likely appointees. Herr Von Reichenau, the German minister to Brazil; Dr. Baron Munn on Schwarz, the German ambassador to Japan, are others prominently mentioned.

The post will not be filled by a new appointment until after the second week in September after Prince Von Bismarck, the Imperial chancellor, has conferred with the emperor. One reason for the conjecture that Count Von Getzen may be Stenberg's successor is the fact that an American diplomat while in conversation with the emperor only a short time ago, said something complimentary to Count Von Getzen. "I am glad to hear you say this," the emperor is reported to have replied, "because Count Von Getzen will be the next ambassador to Washington."

This statement was very definite when made and created so much feeling in the German diplomatic service that it may be necessary for the decision to be changed. Count Von Getzen belongs to the younger set in German diplomatic corps and others are considered more rightfully to be in line for this desirable appointment. Count Von Getzen is a brilliant and amiable man, 42 years old. He has seen a variety of service, including the post of military attaché at Washington from 1896 to 1900. After this he was made governor to German East Africa for five years and in February of this year was appointed minister at Hamburg. Another thing which augurs his appointment is the fact that he married an American lady, Mrs. May Stanley Lay of Baltimore. Her maiden name was Lenox.

Herr Von Reichenau has had a much wider diplomatic service than the count. He is known as a well versed man of North and South America, besides being first secretary of the German embassy at Washington, 1896 to 1898. He was minister to Guatemala and Chili before he was sent to Brazil and he has been regarded as a man picked for promotion.

Baron Munn von Schwarz has often said he would rather be in the embassy at Washington than any other post in the service. He was a candidate before Baron Von Stenberg for the appointment. He is well satisfied with his post at Tokyo and is serving Germany so well there that they may hesitate to change him to Washington. There are other possibilities in the field, any one of which may receive

BURGULARS VISITED STRANG RESIDENCE

On Madison Street During Absence of Family from City and Carried Away $25 in Cash.

While Mrs. Lucy A. Strang and her son, Ellsworth, were absent from the city, their residence at 107 Madison street was ransacked by thieves who appropriated $25 in bills left in a cabinet between the leaves of some sheet metal and a quantity of solid silverware. The silverware was left in a box in the backyard, the burglars evidently deciding that there was too much danger involved in the effort to dispose of such booty. The contents of bureau drawers were strewn over the floor by the invaders and a light was left burning in the northwest room upstairs—an apartment occupied by Miss Ella Nott, a sister of Mrs. Strang, when she is at home. The light was noticed by neighbors for several evenings in succession but they appear to have merely concluded that some of the family had returned home. Entrance to the home was gained through a rear window overlooking the roof of the kitchen which slopes down to within four or five feet of the ground. That the work was done sometime after Wednesday last is evident from the fact that Ellsworth Strang visited the premises that day and found everything in perfect order. Circumstances seem to indicate that the work was done by local talent, or at least by parties who were familiar with the habits of the family and had good reason to suspect that money had been left behind.

GEORGE RICHARDSON.

This is the negro suspected of making the assault on Mrs. Hallum at Springfield, Ill.—the man whose arrest precipitated the race riot which cost scores of lives. He was spirited away from the jail when the crowds demanded that the sheriff give him up to the vengeance of the lynch law. Thus he himself was saved from death but his escape can probably be said to have been responsible for starting the tinder which developed into the fire of excitement and rioting in Springfield which the country has seen in many days.

"Old Pipes."
(From "Old Pipes and the Dryad," by Frank R. Stockton.)
Find the old Echo Dwarf.

"You're looking, 100 per cent. better."
"Had, mad world! Naughty!"
"Mallard, out of town."
"Been out of town and just got your note."
"Your honesty is a great comfort to me. It's not stammering, I presume you sent it round by hand of the future president of the United States whom you now employ as office boy. And O'Hagan didn't forward it for that reason."
"Important, eh? I'm only in for the night."
"Then come and dine with me at the Primordial. I'll put the others off."
"Good enough. In an hour, then? Good-by."

He was a flat-topped desk, of mahogany, with two pedestals of drawers, all locked. Mallard determined this latter fact by trying to open them without a key; failing, his keyring solved the difficulty in a jiffy. But the drawers seemed undisturbed; nothing had been either handled, or removed, or displaced, so far as he could determine. And again he wagged his head from side to side in solemn stupefaction.

"This is beyond you, Dan, my boy." And: "But I've got to know what it means."
In the hall O'Hagan was shuffling impatiently. Pondering deeply, Mallard unlocked the desk and got upon his feet. A small bowl of beaten brass which he used as an ash receiver, stood ready to his hand; he took it up, carefully blew it clean of dust, and inverted it over the print of the hand.

"On top of the bowl he placed a weighty afterthought in the shape of a book."
"O'Hagan!"
"Waiting, son."
"Come hither, O'Hagan. You see that desk?"
"Yes, sir."
"Are you sure?"
"Ah, faith—"

"I want you not to touch it, O'Hagan. Under penalty of my extreme displeasure, don't lay a finger on it till I give you permission. Don't dare to dust it. Do you understand?"
"Yes, sir. Very good, Mr. Mallard."

CHAPTER II.

Post-Prandial.

Bannerman pushed back his chair a few inches, shifting position the better to benefit of a faint air that fanned in through the open window. Mallard, twisting the sticky stem of a liqueur glass between thumb and forefinger, sat in patient waiting for the lawyer to speak.

But Bannerman was in no hurry; his mood was rather one of contemplative and genial. He was a round and cherubic little man, with the face of a guileless child, the acumen of a successful counsel for soulless corporations (that is to say, of a high order), no particular sense of humor, and a great appreciation of good eating. And Mallard was famous in his day as one thoroughly conversant with the art of ordering a dinner.

That which they had just discussed had been uncommon in all respects; Mallard's scheme of courses and his specification as to details had roused the admiration of the Primordial's chef and put him on his mettle. He had outdone himself in his efforts to do justice to Mr. Mallard's genius; and the Primordial in its deadly conservatism remains to this day one of the very few places in New York where good, solid cooking is to be had by the initiate.

Therefore Bannerman thoughtfully sucked at his cigar and thought fondly of a salad that had been to ordinary salads as his 80-horse-power car was to an electric blackboard. While Mallard, with all time at his disposal, idly licked the ash from his cigarette and followed his attorney's meditative gaze out through the window.

Because of the heat the curtains were hooped back, and there was nothing to obstruct the view. Madison square lay just over the sill, a dark wilderness of foliage here and there made vivid green by the lights. Its walks teemed with humanity, its benches were crowded. Dimly from his heart came the cool peeling of the fountain, in lulls that fell unaccountably in the roaring rattle of restless feet. Over across, Broadway raised glittering walls of glass and stone; and thence came the poignant groan and rumble of surface cars crawling upon their weary and unvarying rounds.

And again Mallard thought of the City, and of Destiny, and of the gray girl the silhouette of whose hand was imprisoned beneath the brass bowl on his study desk. For by now he was quite satisfied that she and none other had trespassed upon the privacy of his rooms, obtaining access to them in his absence by means as unguessable as his motive. Nonchalantly he considered taking Bannerman into his confidence; but he questioned the advisability of this. Bannerman was so severely practical in his outlook upon life, while this adventure had been so madly whimsical, so engagingly impossible. Bannerman would be sure to suggest a call at the precinct police station. . . . If she had made way with anything, it would be different; but so far as Mallard had been able to determine, she had abstracted nothing, disturbed nothing beyond a few square inches of dust.

business whose immediate moment had brought them together. He hummed softly, calling his client to attention. Mallard came out of his reverie, vaguely smiling.

"I'm waiting, old man. What's up?"
"The Graeme business. His lawyers have been after me again. I even had a call from the old man himself."
"Yes? The Graeme business?"
Mallard's expression was blank for a moment; then comprehension informed his eyes. "Oh, yes; in connection with the Dougherty investment swindle."
"That's it. Graeme's pleading for mercy."

Mallard lifted his shoulders significantly. "That was to be expected, wasn't it? What did you tell him?"
"That I'd see you."

"Did you hold out to him any hopes that I'd be easy on the gang?"
"I told him that I doubted if you could be induced to let up."
"Then why?"
"Why, because Graeme himself is an innocent of wrong doing and wrong intent as you are."

"You believe that?"
"I do," affirmed Bannerman. His fat pink fingers drummed uneasily on the cloth for a few moments. "There isn't any question that the Dougherty people induced you to sink your money in their enterprise with intent to defraud you."

"I should think not," Mallard interjected, amused.

"But old man Graeme was honest. In intention at least. He meant no harm; and in proof of that he offers to shoulder your loss himself. If by so doing he can induce you to drop further proceedings. That proves he's in earnest, Dan, for although Graeme is comfortably well to do, it's a known fact that the loss of a cool half million, while it's a drop in the bucket to you, would cripple him."

"Then why doesn't he stand to his associates, and make them each pay back their fair share of the loot? That'd bring his liability down to about fifty thousand."

"Because they won't give up without a contest in the courts. They deny your proofs—you have those papers, haven't you?"
"Safe, under lock and key," asserted Mallard, sententiously. "When the time comes I'll produce them."
"And they incriminate Graeme?"
"They make it look as black for him as for the others. Do you honestly believe him innocent, Bannerman?"

"I do, implicitly. The dread of exposure, the fear of notoriety when the case comes up in court, has aged the man ten years. He begged me with tears in his eyes to induce you to drop it and accept his offer of restitution. Don't you think you could do it, Dan?"

Seeking a Happy Medium.

"What do you intend to give to our campaign fund?" asked the political expert. "It's hard to decide," answered Mr. Dustin Stax. "The amount must, of course, be big enough to help the cause and at the same time small enough not to start a scandal."

A Skin of Beauty is a Joy Forever.

DR. T. FELIX GOURAUD'S ORIENTAL CREAM OR MAGICAL DEAMIFIER

FERD. T. HOPKINS, Prop., 37 Great Jones Street, New York.

THE STORY OF A MEDICINE.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery"—was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the new world-famous "Golden Medical Discovery" was the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or constipation, torpid liver, or biliousness, and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its makeup.

A glance at the list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical authorities and are recommended by the very best physicians for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is indicated.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. J. C. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompanied with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time, and perservere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

Further and closer inspection developed the fact that the imprint had been only recently made. Within the hour—unless Mallard was indeed mad or dreaming—a woman had stood by that desk and rested a hand, palm down, upon it; not yet had the dust had time to settle, and blur the sharp impression. Bannerman thoughtfully sucked at his cigar and thought fondly of a salad that had been to ordinary salads as his 80-horse-power car was to an electric blackboard. While Mallard, with all time at his disposal, idly licked the ash from his cigarette and followed his attorney's meditative gaze out through the window.
